

All Hallows Students Shine Again

A level results day brings the usual mix of nerves and excitement, and this year was no exception at All Hallows Catholic College. Initial indicators, however, show that this year's group has once again performed exceptionally well, with many earning places at top universities and others securing highly sought-after apprenticeships with both local and global companies.

Principal, Tim Beesley, said, "We are delighted with the A level and BTEC results across the board, but what stands out even more are the individual successes of each student. I would like to thank our teachers and staff for their relentless dedication and care, and also express gratitude to the parents and families for their ongoing support."

Chair of Governors, Mrs Clair Watson, echoed this sentiment, stating, "I am overjoyed with the achievements of our students. On behalf of the Governors, I extend sincere thanks to the teachers for their unwavering commitment to our students."

Head of Sixth Form, David Howells, commended the students, saying, "These results are a testament to their hard work and dedication. This cohort has set a high standard for the rest of the College, showing exceptional leadership and a strong commitment to their volunteer work and Catholic social enterprise initiatives. As they move forward, they take with them not just academic achievements, but also strong values and attitudes that will serve them well in the future."

This year, the highest achieving student was Holly Hurst, with a very well-deserved four A* grades, in Maths, Physics, Biology & Chemistry. Other high-performing students include, Elizabeth Hill, Danny Baylan, Andrew Lavelle, Ciaran Boyle, Lauren Ball, Zara Knowles, Emilia Kotas, Abbie Machin, Dylan Trevor Stankard & Sofia Whitehurst.

Holly, Elizabeth & Emilia have all secured places at Edinburgh University to study Chemical Physics, English Literature & History, and Medicine, respectively. Danny & Sofia are going to the University of Birmingham, to study Computer Science and Physiotherapy. Andrew is going to the University of Manchester to study Computer Science, and Ciaran is starting an apprenticeship in Quantity Surveying. Zara is reading International Relations with Spanish at the University of Liverpool, Abbie is going to the University of York to study Biochemistry, and Dylan is in employment. Head Student, Mathilde Rozman, who is starting an apprenticeship with AJ Bell, said "I am very grateful for all of the support and guidance that I received from All Hallows. These past two years have been incredibly challenging, and I couldn't have achieved my successes without the help of my amazing teachers".
